Patroller Saves Child's Life

Alexander Hernandez was just doing his duty. Last school year he was a fifth-grader at Maytown Elementary School, when during the last week of school his bravery saved a little girl's life.

While at his post, Alexander saw Astra Parmer, (in photo with Hernandez) crossing the street to catch up with her older sister. The kindergartener darted out into the path of a moving van. Alexander saw this out of the corner of his eye and snatched her up to avoid her being hit by the van.

AAA Central Penn applauds Alexander for his service. Alexander was presented with a plaque for his "Quick thinking and responsive actions that resulted in saving a life of a fellow student." His name was submitted for the AAA School Safety Patrol™ Lifesaving Award.

The AAA School Safety Patrol™ Lifesaving Award is the highest award given to members of the AAA School Safety Patrol™.

Wearing The Belt and Badge Properly

As authority figures, it is important that patrollers are wearing their belt and badge correctly. The easiest way to ensure your patrollers understand how to wear their belt and badge is to demonstrate the simple technique illustrated here.

STEP 1 Unhook the waist belt and hold the belt so the words "Safety Patrol" are facing you.

STEP 2 Slide the shoulder strap over your left arm and over your head. Buckle the waist belt and adjust the shoulder strap (if needed).

STEP 3 Pin badge on shoulder strap.
